

Consciously or unconsciously, every one of us does render some service... If we cultivate the habit of doing this service deliberately, our desire for service will steadily grow stronger, and will make, not only our own happiness, but that of the world at large.

MAHATMA GANDHI (1869-1948)

Indian leader and activist